THIS Work, now in the TENTH year of its existence, is ready for delivery. It has been compiled and printed at the Daily Press Office, as usual, from the best and most authentic sources, and no pains have been spared to make the work comploto in all respects.

In addition to the usual varied and voluminous information, the value of the OHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY FOR 1872" will be further augmented by the addition of a Chromo-lithograph plate of the NEW CODE OF SIGNALS IN USE AT THE PEAK;

Honorong, February 20rm, 1872.

THE departure of the Colonial-Secretary at the present time cannot but be considered a subject of regret. The chief result from it will be that the new Governor on his arrival will find himself without the most important official for the proper government of the Colony. The Colonial-Secretary is of course the right hand man of the Governor. and it is always expected that only a thoroughly experienced and officient officer will be placed in that position. As matters now stand, not only is a comparatively inexperienced person placed in the post, but he comes to it so short a time before the arrival of the new Governor that it must be impossible for him to obtain the necessary run of the office before he is called upon to enter on the and read English efficiently. Mr. Willcooks Mr. G. de Smidt, chief-officer of the Arratoon second defendants ent to one month's hard labor, active part of his duties.

The matter does not, however, end here.

Other offices are also affected by the promo- smitable to the force as a whole. tions which are made from them, and rendered less efficient than they might be. The departure of the Hon. Mr. Austin is thus Colonido, apparently without provocation, the most effective means of starting affairs pushed a Russian Midshipman from Peddar's under difficulties on the arrival of the successor to Sir Richard MacDonnell; and, was in charge of a boat by which the Russian although the long time Mr. Austin has been out here no doubt entitles him to that he did not feel called upon to postpone his departure for a short time, so as at all become thoroughly au courant before he was deprived of so important an officer as the COLONIAL-SECRETARY. The Registrar-General's Department is also placed in a difficult position, being deprived of an official who by this time must be well conversant with its details, at the very moment when it is essential that the most accurate and carefully weighed reports upon all connected with is should be given. Mr. Tonnocur is a sensible and active official; but his knowledge of Chinese is far inferior to that of Mr. SMITH, and it could not be expected, even of a man of the first-class attainments, that he would be able to take up the duties of an office of so favourable, and only asks for justice. much difficulty in the space of two or three months. Mr. May's appointment to the office of Treasurer will also cause no little surprise. Although there is probably no official in the Colony whom the public generally would P. Glim! v. Geelong. This was a de bene esse examination of the officers of the steamship Arrateon Apear, which was in-company with the P. & O. mail steamer Geolong just before the collision with the bark Glimt, and was herself in collision with the Glimit subsequently.

Mr. Drummond, instructed by Mr. Francis appeared for the promovents, and the Acting Queen's Advocate, instructed by Mesers. Caldwell and Brereton, for the impugnants. The witnesses, being called for the impuguants, were examined by the Acting Queen's Advocate. Cantain McTavish, of the Arratoon Apear, stated that on the 10th. February about 7 p.m. he was entering the Lamma Channel, in company with the Geelong. The night was very dark, the air being clear, but the sky cloudy. He was steering North, but more by the land bearings than by compass. The Geclong went ahead as they were coming through the Channel, and the Arratoon Apear slowed down to let her pass, first to half speed, and then till she was "going easy," The Geelong passed on the port side, and went ahead until as they approached Green Island she was about three quarters of a mile in front. Witness then observed her sheer over on the starboard bow, apparently going actern. Witness stopped his engines, and starboarded his belm. Short! after this he observed a vessel approaching with yarde braced up on the starboard tack. This vessel struck the A. Apear on the starboard quarter, not with much force and doing little damage. The vessels were in collision a very short time; the steamer's engines were going ahead and she passed on. The summine up at the close is very characteristic of Lidestructive floods to the penny wise and pound foolish system which the government has been pursuing of late years. Li never seems to

The Peking Gosette of the 9th January contains an edict that contrasts strangely with the sensible memorial by Li Hung-chang, which noted above. In the latter, Li boldly attributed the floods in Child to the diversion of the sum nominally allotted to repair the Canal. Now, he has begged the Emperor to bestow a tablet on the River God, whom all the Tientsin mundaring were so busily worshipping last autumn, under the gase of a snake. We can only infer that the one memorial was an expression of Li's common sense conviction; and that the other is intended as a son to popular superatition. The Emperor of course noceden. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chiese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

IMPERIAL QUARTO.

MOE scope and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese bave of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are bere given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature, Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typegraphy displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond n the sixe of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeaus residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. It comprises upwards of two thousand large

Extracts. Affairs at Pokin.

(To the Editor of the "Spectator.") Sir.—Considerable disappointment was felt by those interested in the maintenance of amicable relations between China and Europe at the failure of the late mission of Chung Hou to the French Government. The Embassy was the first of its kind, and Chung Hou was the first Mandarin who had left the shores of China as the accredited representative of the Imperial Government, His high rank gave additional importance to the expedition, and as he was the official directly responsible for the ontrage and massacre he came to extenuate, and as it was well understood in his own country that his life depended on the success of his negotiations, great hopes were entertained that the result of his journey might be to provide some better assurance for the maintenance of order and the protection of Europeans than we have at present, and to clear away some of the difficulties and misapprehensions that impede negotiations with the Chinese, and are in continual danger of involving us in a war of revenge. It will be remembered that he was refused audience at Versailles on the CLASS, under the direction of Mr. A. Singen, ground that the French Government could not receive ambassadors from a potenate who denied a similar privilege to the representatives of France, and some satisfaction was felt that the Celestials were at last tanglet that their barbarian insolence would not be endured by great. Powers in comparison with whom they were really little better than savages, I It now appears that Oriental insolence is not the sole or main cause of this apparently abound piece of pretension. The Emperor is not insensible to the necessity of keeping on good terms and maintaining diplomatic relations with Europe but this autocrat is not altogether his own muster. Such is the ignorance of his subjects and so deep and wide-spread is the batred of the "foreign devils," that it is impossible for him to receive our Ministers in person without exciting passions and suspicions that might shake his already tuttering throne to the ground. He accordingly shelters himself behind his Ministers, and in order to evade the difficulty as long as possible be declines to proclaim his majority, and in our interests continues in a state of pupilage to his guardians. The Ministers, on whom the responsibility is thus thrown of holding intercourse with the accuraced race, are obliged to protect themselves from public odium by proclaiming violent anti-foreign sentiments, knowing that on the Emperor's majority a coup d'état, in which their heads would pay the price of popular approbation, would be an easy matter for the Opposition. Yet their own political convictions are by no means violently hostile to foreigners, and they are in the our lone position of men who have to drive their country in a direction they privately regard as beneficial, but which they are compelled publicly to disavow. Not that they have any greater love of foreigners than ! the rest of their countrymen, but they have to make the best of a bad business. The country can only be driven by the red rag of fear, and so it comes about that they look for support to the foreigners themselves, and are only too glad to see symptoms of a readiness on their part to adopt vigorous measures. Every gunbont in the river is an additional argument for them, and has this great merit, that it is intelligible to the meanest capacity. They are thoroughly aware of their inability to cope with any European power, -a forcible though unpleasant illustration of which is the fact that they are enticing European officers into their service in considerable numbers, it at least rumonris to be believed. But however this may be, the fect to which we wish to draw. attention is that the Chinese Administration is more liberally inclined than it dares to avow in the teeth of the violent opposition of a large majority; that it is thus placed in a highly precarious condition, and may be supplanted a any moment by the opposite party, who would certainly prove the sincerity of their hatred by ordering or conniving at the massacre of all Enropeans in Pekin, and wherever else they were incapable of protecting themselves. The position, therefore, of our Ministers at Pekin is i one without parallel, and certainly at no other Court are foreign representatives possessed of half the power. It is fortunate for us that we enjoy the services of a gentleman who owns an acquaintance with the Chinese character possessed by no other man living. Besides his | tf 226] diplomatic subordinates, he has under him a considerable staff of interpreters; and a similar establishment is maintained by the Continental Powers and by America. It is not too much; to say that any symptom of weakness at home | A which should lend the Chinese people, the most ignorant on the face of the earth, to Weekly Sales every Monday, and Proceeds Paid believe that we should exact no greater indemnity for another outrage than has followed the Tientsia massacre, would lose us all these valuable lives and everything that we have gained in China, until another costly war should compel the people of that country to admit us once again, more detested than before. It'is much to be feared that the very inadequate notice taken of the Tientsin massacre will be regarded as an invitation to a repetition of Superior and Pacific Fuse Company's Eagle pared to take risks against Fire, on the usual such scanes, and what this implies cannot be Safety Fuse. imagined by any one who has no personal experience of the bestial cruelty of the Chinese, It is more easy to imagine the cost in men and money of a war to revenge what might have been prevented. We have now friends in the Government, and it is our duty and interest to strengthen their hands. It is open to us to do this in two ways, and neither should be neg-
